SITUATIONAL SYNOPSIS

7.2 Magnitude Earthquake

- After the 7.2-magnitude earthquake and TD Grace hit Haiti on 14 and 17 August, respectively, compounding the destitution brought by escalating gang-related displacements, chronic food insecurity and recurrent climatic shocks, humanitarian needs are growing rapidly, outpacing the speed of national authorities and humanitarian partners to reach affected populations.
- Under the leadership of the Government, national and international humanitarian partners are scaling up multi-sectoral response efforts in all quake-affected areas.
- Additional human and financial resources are needed to respond to the crisis, as organizations are stretched thin from responding to multiple simultaneous crises in the country.
- Despite negotiation of a humanitarian corridor, access constraints and insecurity remain a key challenge facing humanitarian partners across all sectors.
